

Work Study Awards

Limited partial tuition awards may be available to candidates who are willing to undertake certain logistics duties and responsibilities that help support the Training* in which they are enrolled. Award amounts are dependent on availability and necessity.

*Work study positions are only available for in-person trainings.

Purpose

Participants in a Work Study role serve to:

- Enhance the classroom experience for all Training participants
- Support SPI faculty members facilitating the Training
- Support local SPI Organizers
- Liaise between Training and SPI administrative office

In return, Work Study participants receive compensation for their efforts in the form of a tuition reduction.

Typical Work Study Duties/Responsibilities:

Assigned Work Study responsibilities will not interfere with participant's ability to experience the Training, however additional time may be required from participant immediately prior to or after each Training day, or during daily rest and lunch breaks.

Catering Support

Provide modest catering support for the duration of the Training.

Onsite Support

Provide miscellaneous support at the Training venue, for the duration of the Training. Work Study participant will work in concert with Work Study participant responsible for catering support.
